About Alex:

Alex Sexton's passion for racing was sparked at an early age, watching his dad compete and later starting his own journey in quarter midgets. Now racing in the competitive Street Stock division, Alex has become a familiar face at his local short track, where he continues to push himself against tough competition.

Racing Career:

Alex's racing career began with quarter midgets before moving up to the Street Stock division, drawn to its challenging and competitive nature. Over the last five years, he's worked hard to improve and has earned key achievements along the way.

Favorite Memory at the Track:

Alex's most cherished moment at the track is winning his very first feature race, a milestone that every racer dreams of achieving.

Biggest Challenge:

For Alex, the biggest challenge on the track has been racing against older, more experienced drivers. It's pushed him to adapt quickly and continue developing his skills.

Pre-Race Ritual:

Unlike many racers, Alex doesn't follow any specific pre-race routine. He stays focused and ready to compete.

Racing Idol:

Alex's biggest influence in the sport is Rick Sexton, whose example and support have guided his racing career.

Significant Achievement:

Two wins at the big track stand out as Alex's proudest achievements to date, proving his hard work and determination are paying off.

Ultimate Goal:

Alex's ultimate goal in racing is simple yet ambitious: to race alongside the best in the sport.

Support Team:

Alex credits Rick Sexton for being his key supporter, helping him every step of the way.

Favorite Thing About the Racing Community:

For Alex, the camaraderie and willingness of people to help each other is what makes the racing community special.

Funny or Unexpected Moment:

One of Alex's most unexpected moments came during qualifying when he ended up with a bloody nose—a memory that still brings a laugh.

Off the Track:

When he's not at the track, Alex enjoys iRacing, using the virtual world to sharpen his skills and have fun.
